

Audubon Center Weekday Docent

Brief Description:

Weekday Docents at the Prospect Park Audubon Center are key to the mission of the Center, and an essential component of its school programs. Docents will interact with visitors as guides and explainers, and provide information about the Audubon Center and Prospect Park in addition to delivering natural history and environmental conservation programming for the Center's diverse audiences.

Responsibilities:

- Interpret hands-on exhibits and demonstrate related educational and hands-on activities, to Center visitors, especially school-age children visiting on class trips.
- Answer visitor questions and provide directions
- Prepare, set-up and store program supplies
- Collect statistical visitation information
- Other duties as needed

Qualifications:

- Talent for speaking to diverse audiences in a friendly and engaging manner
- Interest in Natural History and Environmental Conservation
- Ability to work with children
- Strong written and oral communication skills
- Ability to work as part of a team
- Dedication to life-long learning
- Commitment to Prospect Park

The Prospect Park Audubon Center at the Boathouse is a partnership of the Prospect Park Alliance and Audubon-New York