Prospect Park Alliance Receives Funding from Greater Hudson Heritage Network
To Restore Historic Painting at Lefferts Historic House

BROOKLYN, August 25, 2014 – The Prospect Park Alliance has received funding from the Greater Hudson Heritage Network to restore a historic oil painting at Lefferts Historic House. The grant will go toward the conservation of Portrait of Mr. Lefferts, an oil-on-canvas painting of the house’s original Dutch owner. The restoration of the painting, undertaken by conservators Barbara Applebaum and Paul Himmelstein, will stabilize loose paint and restore the work’s original colors.

Built by the Lefferts family in the 18th-century farming village of Flatbush, Lefferts Historic House features a working garden, historic artifacts, period rooms and exhibits. Visitors are encouraged to play with traditional tools, toys and games, and engage in historic activities such as candle making, sewing and butter churning. The Prospect Park Alliance and the Historic House Trust of New York City jointly operate and preserve this important piece of New York City’s past.

Greater Hudson Heritage Network grants funds to New York State’s museums, historical and cultural organizations to aid in stabilizing, preserving, and making accessible to the public the unique objects in their collections. The Conservation Treatment Grant Program of Greater Hudson Heritage Network is made possible with public funds from the New York State Council for the Arts, a state agency.
